EXPLANATORY NOTE

This department has been engaged since its organization in 1903 upon a work which is to be entitled "Contributions to American Economic History." On account of the magnitude of the undertaking, it has been necessary to secure the coöperation of economists and historians throughout the country, and to subdivide the work of collecting material. Changes have taken place from time to time in the department, as the work has developed, and as it has become necessary to fill vacancies in the list of collaborators, caused by death or resignation. At the present time the organization of the department is as follows:

- Division I. Population and Immigration, Prof. Walter F. Wilcox,
- Division II. Agriculture and Forestry, President Kenyon L. Butterfield,
- Division III. Mining, Mr. Edward W. Parker,
- Division IV. Manufactures, Dr. Victor S. Clark,
- Division V. Transportation, Dr. B. H. Meyer,
- Division VI. Domestic and Foreign Commerce, Prof. Emory R. Johnson,
- Division VII. Money and Banking, Prof. Davis R. Dewey,
- Division VIII. Labor Movement, Prof. John R. Commons,
- Division IX. Industrial Organization, Prof. J. W. Jenks,
- Division X. Social Legislation, Prof. Henry W. Farnam,
- Division XI. Federal and State Finance, Prof. Henry B. Gardner,
- Division XII. The Negro in Slavery and Freedom, Mr. Alfred H. Stone.

While the work which is being done under each of the divisions is, as a rule, directed by the collaborator in charge, in a very few cases special grants have been made to secure the publication of studies or material needed for a division though not planned by it.

In addition to the work of investigation carried on by the several divisions, the department as a whole is engaged upon the preparation of an index of the economic material found in the public documents of the States of the United States. The compilation of this index has been entrusted to Miss Adelaide R. Hasse, Librarian in the Department of Public Documents of the New York Public Library, under the general direction of a special committee consisting of Professors Dewey, Gardner, and Willcox.

The Carnegie Institution of Washington is publishing the Index, but has not undertaken the publication of any of the studies, some of which have been issued under arrangements made by their several authors, some of which have been printed in whole or in part in the form of magazine articles, and many of which are still in manuscript. All of the work thus far printed is preparatory to the final summary which still remains to be issued by the several collaborators. From the explanation just given, it will be seen that the bibliographical list which follows falls into four divisions:—

I. The volumes of the Index of State Documents, published by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

II. Monographs prepared under the direction of the Department, published elsewhere. This division includes the Documentary History of American Industrial Society in eleven volumes, which was issued under the immediate direction of the Bureau of Industrial Research, aided by a grant of money made on behalf of the Division of Labor, by the late Col. Carroll D. Wright. Upon the death of Col. Wright, Prof. John R. Commons, the editor-in-chief of the Documentary History, was chosen to take charge of the Division of Labor, so that this collection of material was made under the present head of the Division, though planned by him before he became officially associated with it.

III. Shorter studies, or parts of monographs published in periodicals.

IV. Unpublished monographs.

The following table summarizes the titles entered in the two editions of this bibliography and thus indicates the extent of the revision, but does not take account of the number of volumes.

	Edition of 1911.	Edition of 1912.
I.	11	13
II.	46	52
III.	42	61
IV.	108	108

All but one of the publications enumerated under I and II and published down to the beginning of 1912 have been deposited in the library of the Administration Building in Washington, and others are added when issued. The compiler cordially acknowledges the valuable aid of his secretary, Miss V. A. Timm, without whose constant and vigilant care many errors and omissions would have remained uncorrected. If, in spite of every effort, inaccuracies have crept in, he will be grateful to any who will point them out.

HENRY W. FARNAM.
